73 rd FOUNDING DAY OF AIBEA – 20TH APRIL, 2018 OCCASION TO REJOICE – OCCASION TO RESOLVE – OCCASION TO PLEDGE – OCCASION TO PREPARE

All our units and members will be aware that 20th April, 2018 marks the completion of 72 years of glorious existence of AIBEA and will be the 73rd Founding Day of our beloved organisation. As in every year, this year also we need to celebrate and observe the Founding Day befittingly.

All that bank employees enjoy today – better wages, secured service conditions, safe jobs and total job security, fortified trade union rights, right to collective bargaining and bipartism – are the results of unity of the employees, loyalty to the organisation and continued militant struggles under the banner of AIBEA. We are also proud that AIBEA played a pioneering role in fighting for nationalisation of Banks and today we are fighting against all attempts to privatise these Banks. All of us certainly understand that the days ahead are going to be tough and more challenging because of the hostile policies of the Government. Banking industry will be under severe attack. The private corporates who are responsible for huge bad loans are now demanding privatisation to swallow our public sector Banks. Hence we need to unite more, and we need to fight more. We need to defend our jobs and job security, we need to fight for betterment in the living and serving conditions of bank employees. We need to secure and safeguard the future of the thousands of young bank employees who have joined the Banks in the recent years with a lot of expectations. Their jobs and job security are a priority issue before us today. There are policies of contractualisation and outsourcing our regular and permanent jobs. There are attempts to curtail recruitments of permanent employees. We need to fight against outsourcing and for adequate recruitments

We also need to ensure vibrant public sector banks in the larger interest of our country. Banks are nation building institutions and they must remain so. Our past has been glorious. It is in our hands to make the future more splendid and meaningful. Hence we all upon all our units and members all over the country to celebrate the occasion with organisational programmes and activities
